They have now gone out to Beaver lake to examine that district. They represent a large number of farmers who want to settle all together and will endeavor to secure a township if possible.

ANOTHER football match between Strathcona and Edmonton was played on the team on Friday night. Edmonton was heavily handicapped in being forced to shoot on their regular team—three were away and S. Rowland, the fourth, had his foot so injured through a horse stepping on it that he was unable to play. Rather than not play at all the team decided to go over and do the best they could, and the match came off as arranged, the southerners winning by a score of 14 to 6. Another match will be played shortly, when Edmonton will have its full team and a closer result may be anticipated.

FRESH Battleford exchanges just at hand it appears that the big wind and rain storm which visited Edmonton a week ago last Tuesday, travelled eastward gathering force as it went and by the time it reached Battleford must have acquired the dimensions of a fairly respectable tornado. The ferry boat was blown away in her moorings, both banks of the river being dashed up and driven down stream where she lies on her beam ends in the river. Lightning struck the telegraph office setting a cylinder and window curtain on fire, and visited the police barracks and wrought much mischief. It burnt the paint off an iron bedstead, roared a towel to cinders and played general havoc with the other furniture. In this the police were prompt before the blast.

BY Friday's mail Miss Segers of Edmonton, received from her father, Capt. Segers, now in command of a Yukon river boat at St. Michaela, a letter accompanied by a most substantial souvenir in the shape of a buckskin sack filled with $1,000 worth of Yukon gold. The sack is about eight inches long, quite small around and bound with a leather strap at one end. It soon brings out to civilization by a captain of one of the ocean steamers, a friend of Capt. Segers, and sent by express from the coast to Edmonton, and in arriving in safety as it did it pays a tribute to the honesty of Canadian mail and express officials.

Accompanying the sack was a small nugget of gold from Coal Mine, where Capt. Segers is interested in a claim. The gold in the sack was mostly in small grains, about the size of pin heads, but with it were also a number of nuggets.

CRICKET.

The match, March 1 vs. Single, was played last Saturday, (29th July) and was won after a close and exciting struggle by the "unmarried"; the margin being only four runs.

Sandeman and Waites hit well for their respective sides, while Ruete did the "hat trick." In the scores given below it will be noticed that the married played 11, while their rivals—who had only 11—fielded keenly and thoroughly deserved their victory.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, JULY 31, 1899.

INDIAN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

Speech by Frank Oliver, M. P., House of Commons, July 14th, 1899. From Hansard.

Mr. Oliver. Before the vote is passed I would like to make a few remarks, as I do not agree with the position taken by the hon. member for West Assiniboina (Mr. Davin), in regard to Indian Industrial schools. I had the honor, during the first session in which I was in this house, to draw attention to the large amount of money involved in the grant to industrial schools for Indians in the Territories. I thought it was only right that, in so far as I was acquainted with these schools, I should give my views and such information as I had in regard to them. The conclusion I had come to and which, I believe, is very largely shared throughout the Territories, is that the large expenditure, however good may have been the intention in regard to it, and however well it may have been administered, certainly has not been justified by results. That the improvement in the condition of the Indians generally, or in the condition of the Indians who attend these schools, has not been such as to warrant the very large expenditure of public funds that is made upon them from year to year. This is a statement which I wish to repeat to the committee to-night. I do not wish that there should be any breach of faith with the Indians, or with anybody; I do not wish that there should be any drawing back of the charity or goodwill that may have been expressed to the Indians, but, I think it is only right if a certain result which has been attempted to be achieved has not been achieved, that the statement should be made. I have nothing to say against the motive in the establishment of these schools; I have nothing to say against the management of them, either by those who directly manage them, that is to say the different churches, or the officials of the government. I believe that all is done with the very best of intentions, but I say that, as a matter of fact, the result desired to be achieved, has not been achieved. A sufficient time has elapsed since the experiment was started for results to be attained, and if results have not been attained, and I say certainly they have not, then it is time for parliament to consider whether this is a proper expenditure or not. I say to the committee that not only have results not been achieved, but that in the nature of things, results cannot be achieved when the fact is that when you take the white man's money to educate the Indian's child, and to compete with the white man, you are doing an injustice to the white man if you succeed; and when you take the white man's money to educate the Indian's child to compete with the white man and fail, you are wasting the white man's money and you are doing the Indian no good. You can have it either way and whichever way you take it you are doing wrong. I say that as a matter of fact, you have taken the white man's money to make the Indian a white man, and you have utterly failed. An Indian who has passed through an industrial school, is an Indian still, but he is not as good an Indian as before he went in. I do not say that he is not as good morally, or religiously, or educationally, but he is not as good, considered as a self-supporting person, as he was before he went in. The fact is, when you put an Indian into an industrial school you teach him the white man's trade, and the white man's idea, but unless you can put on top of that give him the white man's ability and desire to exercise these ideas so as to be a self-supporting and self-respecting citizen, you have thrown your money away. That is something you cannot educate into the Indian any more than you can educate it into the white man. What the Indian wants is the self-supporting idea, the idea of independence; not only the ability to support himself, but the desire to support himself. Now, Mr. Chairman, the Indian can support himself as a pioneer, as a freighter, as a voyager, as a hunter, possibly as a herder of cattle, and possibly as a farmer on a small scale. There is no question but that he can support himself in any of these lines if the circumstances surrounding him compel or allow him to do so. But the Indian cannot support himself as a tailor, as a shoemaker, as a blacksmith, as a carpenter, in competition with the white men in those trades surrounding him. It is not because he cannot make a horseshoe, or put it on as well as a whiteman; it is not because he cannot do carpenter work as well as a white man; but it is because he has not in him that idea of self-supporting himself, and because he has not that idea of managing his own business for his own support that the white man has.

Now, that idea, if it were in him originally, would, as far as possible, be taken out of him by the system which we have adopted in our industrial schools. It is a system which takes away from the Indian the necessity of his own initiative. It is a system under which the Indian is merely a part of a machine, and any idea of initiative that he had in the beginning, is, as far as may be, educated out of him by the industrial school. The fact is, that the native initiative is taken from him by the industrial school system, and nothing of equal value to him is put in its place. This is the theory which I beg to lay before the house. But it is not a matter of theory; it is the results which we have attained which should guide us. The results prove that the Indians who have been at these industrial schools are not using their natural ability and the training which they acquire in them for their own support as citizens of the country, as it was expected they would. That being the case, I take the liberty of putting my view, based on my own knowledge, and from the information I have received, before the house. I go further, I say that the Indians in the part of the country in which I live, were, to my mind, at the time that the treaty money was first paid to them in 1877, better men than they are to-day, inasmuch as they were more self-supporting than they are to-day. I saw the Indians of Whitefish lake in that year of 1877, drawing their own grain raised by themselves, to the water mill at Victoria settlement to be ground, and I say here, Mr. Chairman, that these Indians at Whitefish lake were in 1877 better men to my mind than they are to-day. That is to say; they were more self-supporting and self-respecting than they are to-day. I repeat, that the system inaugurated and continued for the improvement of the Indian has not been a success; and so far as making them self-supporting and self-respecting citizens goes, they are not as good men to-day as they were twenty years ago.

PARLIAMENTARY.

The business of parliament drags weary along, day after day being lost discussing matters outside the regular programme. On Monday the entire day was spent in committee discussing the estimates to establish illustration stations throughout the country, to demonstrate to the farmers the advantage of growing certain grains. The idea is to have farmers here and there set aside one or two acres for the purpose of illustrating for the benefit of the neighboring the advantages of one cereal over another. The seed is supplied by the government, the work done gratis by the farmers and the produce given to them. The proposal met with vigorous opposition, principally from liberals like John McMillan, and the result was that after an all day debate, the minister asked the item to stand.

Prorogation is now talked of for some day next week.

There is much talk of a general election off coming this fall, although it seems confined to tory papers and tory members. It is hinted, however, in some quarters, that Tarte favors early dissolution. It is difficult to see what the government could gain by an election this year, as good times are sure to continue.

The postmaster-general, on Monday morning, proposed that the house proceed into committee on the question of providing for Canada's assuming five-eighths of the cost of a cable between this country and Australia. The question, he thought, was one on which there was no difference of opinion. Lord Kelvin had calculated the cost in round figures at £1,492,000. Since then the increase in cost of material had brought the cost to £1,592,000. The plan contemplates that the cost be divided in a proportion of five-eighths each for Britain and Canada, and two-eighths each for New Zealand, New South Wales, Queensland and Victoria. In committee he would propose an amendment that representation should be given on a basis of two members for Canada, and three each for Britain and the Australasian colonies. Sir Sanford Fleming had calculated the cable would earn, with due allowance for Asiatic business the first year in operation 1902, £114,157; 1903, £153,031; 1904, £197,375 and in 1905, £249,144. From these figures the proposition had no financial terrors for Canada, but would command itself to favor in this country. Tupper congratulated the government and the postmaster-general upon this move. John Charlton spoke of the desirability of opening up the Hudson Bay route, the Yukon and the Ottawa Valley ship canal and questioned if these did not promise better returns than the cable proposition. Besides the United States would have a Pacific cable built shortly, cutting into the Canadian scheme. On the following day the question was put through its final stages and sent up to the senate.

Sir Charles Tupper has arranged to sail for England on the 3rd.

Railway subsidies were brought down in the house on Thursday for $6,500,000, making $60,800,000 to be voted this session. The Edmonton, Yukon & Pacific gets a subsidy on a fifty mile road from Antler station to Moose Mountain, and the western Alberta railway gets subsidy on fifty miles.

Regarding the outlook for the closing of the session the Mail, Ottawa, says one of the ministers, speaking to your correspondent to-night expressed the opinion that parliament would be in session for four or five weeks, so there would be no necessity for afternoon or evening committee meetings.

The Globe's Ottawa special says; Laurier and Tupper had a conference this afternoon at which it was decided that until the railway appropriations are brought down it would be useless to discuss the question of terminating the session. If things continue as at present there is little hope of closing before the week ending August 12. The prime minister and his colleagues hoped to close the session next week, but this hope has been abandoned.

MARTIN FOR PREMIER.

A report from Victoria says that Hon. Mr. Martin, the man of the day in British Columbia politics, will be invited by the election committee of Vancouver to stand for premier of the province. The Vancouver World also states that G. R. Maxwell, M. P., will support Martin.

DELIGHTED WITH THE COUNTRY.

We, the undersigned delegates from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, travelling over the Edmonton district north to St. Albert thence northeast to Fort Saskatchewan and returning to Edmonton, have seen the finest and most productive soil that ever met our eyes. The wheat, oats, potatoes, barley and all other products of the farm are magnificent in appearance and will yield in abundance. We would judge that wheat will yield 35 to 60 bushels, oats 80 to 120, and all other crops are in proportion with the above. The soil and crops are beyond everything we expected to see. Two of our delegates are going to stay, and the balance of our party will make hasty preparations on their return home, to come to the Edmonton district. There will no doubt be many of our friends come with us on our return.

HIDES AND BRANDS.

In the hearing of a recent case of cattle stealing here it came out that some local butchers and cattle dealers did not even know of the existence of an ordinance respecting the marking and inspection of stock. In view of this fact a little information on the subject may prevent parties interested from committing an innocent, though possibly costly, contravention of the ordinance. Section 20 of the brand ordinance reads:

Every butcher engaged in slaughtering cattle shall keep a record of all cattle so slaughtered, naming therein the person from whom he purchased, his place of residence, and the age, sex, brands (if any) and marks of all such cattle, which record shall be open at all times to the inspection of the public.

Every butcher slaughtering cattle shall keep the hides of such cattle at his place of slaughtering for a period of not less than seven days; and such hides shall be open to the inspection of the public, and no hide shall be sold or disposed of if any manner until an inspection of such hide and a record of the brands thereon has been made by an inspector of stock, who shall thereafter punch the hide and furnish a certificate of such inspection and record.

Every person other than a butcher who slaughters any cattle for beef shall exhibit the hide of such animal at the time and place the beef is offered for sale, and before such beef is offered for sale the hide shall be punched and a record of the brands (if any) thereon made by an inspector of stock.

Persons other than butchers slaughtering cattle for home consumption shall keep the hide of the animal so killed for 60 days subject to the inspection of the public.

Any person disobeying or contravening any of these provisions shall be liable to a fine of $100.

ANGUS RIDGE.

Mrs. Elliott, Strathcona, is visiting Mrs. R. Angus. Dan Manson, merchant, Wolseley, Assa., is visiting William Thirk. Mr. Manson is holding, and keeping an eye on business at the same time. Peter Waterston has purchased the quarter section south of Mr. Girling in the Battle River district. He will begin breaking next summer. Our picnic will be held some day next week. Andy Donaldson has returned from British Columbia.

Minnie Waterston visited friends here on Monday. Mina Abbott is spending a few days with Mrs. Nelles. Crops are looking excellent here. Battle river, the garden of Alberta, has room for a few good settlers yet. Rev. Robinson, the new Methodist minister, preached his first sermon here last Sabbath. He made a favorable impression.

A GOOD ARTICLE.

In McClure's magazine for July is an excellent article on the "Soldier Police of the Canadian Northwest," by W. A. Fraser. The article has the dual advantage of combining a great deal of valuable and reliable information about the force with interesting, well written sketches of incidents in western life, in which the soldier police played important parts. These incidents date from the early days of the west, from the time when the C.P.R. was being built and "restless, quarreling, drink loving Piapot and his swarthy, hawk-faced following of Crees and Saultaux," were subjugated by one sergeant and a constable and forced to depart much against their will, up to the more recent escapades and subsequent tragic taking off of the Indian outlaw, Almighty Voice. In the telling of these tales Mr. Fraser is at his best, and in them he has compiled an article at once instructive and entertaining, and one that will do much to give to the mounted police that credit which is due them for prompt, intrepid action in time of need.

MORINVILLE.

The ex-American citizens of Morinville celebrated their 25th day here in their 25th year. A basket picnic was held at the residence of J. S. Gross, and many settlers without regard to nationality, were present to assist in making the occasion a success. Football, baseball, running races, sack races, etc., were on the bill of entertainment and provided unlimited amusement for young and old alike. Altogether the affair was a distinct success and a credit is due to the man who was instrumental in arranging it and indefatigable in his efforts to make it a success.

No half of any account has fallen in this settlement and no damage whatever has been done to the crops. Grain and roots of all kinds are maturing splendidly. The Morinville baseball club, or "Swifts," are anxious to meet any combination in North Alberta in a friendly game.

FIRE AT DAWSON CITY.

Victoria, July 23.—Passengers who have arrived from Atlin say Dawson had an unusually narrow escape from destruction by fire on July 7. The blaze commenced in the afternoon on the east hillside of the town. Dry wood was the fuel which clothed the hill that in a few minutes it rushed up the hillside, the flames leaping 100 feet which topped the hill and commenced destructive work on the other side. The blaze commenced between Second and Third Streets. Three cabins were soon destroyed and twelve more almost instantly consumed. The city is practically without fire protection.

IMMIGRATION.

Speaking of the immigration to the Northwest for the past six months, Commissioner McCrae informed a Free Press representative that the influx of foreigners had been larger than in any corresponding period during the past four or five years. The bulk of the foreign immigration consisted of Doukhobors, of which there are now 7,500 in the country, and Galicians. Of the later 6,000 have come into Western Canada since January last. British and Scotch immigration has been greatly in advance of previous years, and also immigration from America, though the bulk of immigration from the United States for this year is expected this fall.

If the present crop be harvested safely, Mr. McCrae has advice which indicate that about 4,000 or 5,000 American farmers from Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, the Dakotas and other states will cross to Canadian soil.

GOLD AT FORT SMITH.

W. Connor, trader of Fort Smith, who came up the river Wednesday, brings word of the finding near Smith of what promises to be a valuable mineral deposit. The spot is situated about twelve miles from Smith in a direct line but the journey to it occupies three days as a very round-about road has to be taken, on account of muskegs. The first knowledge the traders at Smith had of the mines was through specimens brought in by Indians. The natives were continually bringing in small samples of rock which they thought might be valuable, and one day brought in a piece of soft slate in which the gold was plainly discernible with the naked eye. The trader's interest was aroused and they visited the spot and staked claims. Shortly after E. Nagle, of Resolution, came up from Great Slave lake to meet his boat and told of the striking by the McKinlay Barren Lands prospecting and development party of rich gold claims in slate formation exactly similar to that at Smith. There was much interest aroused at the lake over the new find which was as rich as the claims previously staked by the company, and more valuable on account of being more easily mined. The find at Great Slave was on an island in the lake. Mr. Connor left Smith on the 17th June and met Dr. Bell and his geological survey party about a day below McMurray. Dr. Bell will lay out at Smith and assay samples of the ore from the claims there.

The members of the McLean party (Yukon Valley Prospecting Co.) and the Ransom party were met on the 23rd June, 23 miles this side of Lake Athabasca. All well and travelling together. All the boats were being towed by the Ransom party's launch and they would arrive at Smith portage on the 25th.

The steamer "Sparrow," which was hung up at the rapids all winter got safely over as Mr. Connor came up.

Regarding the probability of building a railroad into the Yukon, President Shaughnessy of the C. P. R. gave the following highly indefinite information to the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "If the Klondike turns out well, if it is anything like the gold country that many reasonable men claim it is, a railroad will be built—and the Canadian Pacific will probably have a finger in the pie."

GLENGARRY.

Mosquitos make things lively these times. There are grand prospects for a big yield of grain this autumn. The wheat and oats promise very favorably. Bread and butter are both growing apparently.

Comparatively speaking we had a superabundance of rain this year. The hail storms passed over nicely. There are no effects noticeable. Picnics are the current topics of the day. There were a goodly number in the surrounding settlements of Turotte, Camilla and Morinville, all very good, and Glengarry will take the cake. It is reported there is to be one in the future, not far distant. Several new buildings are in course of erection.

The residence of D. N. McMillan has been handsomely fitted up also "D," as he is familiarly known, has kept pretty quiet this summer. We fear that a fever has spread in our settlement. We hope that none of our juveniles will succumb to the effects of Cupid. J. D. McDonald has been pretty sick—not the above fever this time, this last few days. We hope to see him around—with his witty remarks, in a few days more. The Holy sacrament of first communion is to be administered to a number of children of Glengarry on the second Sunday of August. Father Norkman is the officiating clergyman. Mass will be held in the school on that date.

Amongst those who pay flying visits to our settlement, calling on friends, and who cannot come too often are Mr. and Mrs. Duggan, of Strathcona, Mr. Coughlin, Morinville, Mrs. Walsh Camilla and Mr. Chisholm, Edmonton. Those who represent Glengarry in other neighboring centres on visits are Miss Mary A. McDonald, Miss Cassie McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McDonald. The latest is that a few Galicians passed through our peaceful settlement. All the children were out to see them. They were pushing west.
